NIGHTMARE

THE BOY SPROUTS

THE HOST is appalled to learn that RODNEY has been reading "The Younger Degenerate's Smut Quarterly." Feeling that RODNEY has missed the youthful endeavors youth, THE HOST indoctrinates RODNEY to the principles of "The Boy Sprouts." Included in the Golden rules of Boy Sprouting is the truly inspirational vow to "vow anything I have not vowed in previous vows."

From: THE BOY SPROUTS aired January 12, 1990.

NIGHTMARE

THE TRANSFORMATION

Ever since the first version of NIGHTMARE appeared in 1958, Tom Leahy has been creating his own makeup effects. Tom designed the look of THE HOST, as well as the makeup for each RODNEY that has co-starred with him on NIGHTMARE. The first version appeared on KAKE-TV Channel 10 in 1958 and 1959, the second version on KSN Channel 3 from 1968 to 1971. The third and current version airs on KSAS Channel 24, making its debut on September 22, 1990.

NIGHTMARE

THE NAILMAN

RODNEY tries to bring in some money by airing a religious segment during THE HOST'S show. THE HOST is very upset that RODNEY is using his air time, but changes his mind when the Nailman, played by contest winner Eric Fender, brings in bags of letters filled with a veritable fount of moolah! Cold hard cash, that is!

NIGHTMARE

THE INFERNAL RESIDUE MAN

Having failed to mail in his income tax form, THE HOST is visited by Infernal Residue Man Lamont P. Treadwell. (The P stands for persistent!) Mr. Treadwell, played by Tim McGill, informs THE HOST that he has run afowl of the U.S. government. The mummified cat stuffed in an envelope and mailed shortly before the Blackhawk wars isn't sufficient payment for taxes!

NIGHTMARE

BACCHANALIA IS AFOOT!

THE HOST puts a new slant on reading to improve his vocabulary for those tongue-twisting openings for NIGHTMARE. Here's the very first opening from September 22, 1990.

"Good evening...the violent chemical forces that foment cataclysmic catalitic maelstroms have now channeled the currents of time into this shadowed inlet and once again...the anointed hour has arrived!!! A bacchanalia is afoot...a rounchy revel...a ghoulsh gambol, entitled..... NIGHTMARE!!!

NIGHTMARE

MALEFIC MOLAR

THE HOST, being ever so helpful, extracts a pesky tooth from RODNEY'S mouth in a not-so-painless manner. THE HOST, wishing to end his amigo's pain, uses hammer, chisel, extending screwdriver and plyers to free RODNEY from his fulsome fang.

NIGHTMARE

OMNIVOROUS OGRE

NIGHTMARE FACTOID #3

When NIGHTMARE was first conceived, Tom Leahy always wanted THE HOST as his character, but he needed a name for his cohort. Greg Gamer, who worked at KAKE-TV in the 50's and later became a news anchor, suggested the name RODNEY. Tom liked the suggestion and went on to create NIGHTMARE featuring THE HOST and RODNEY. Little did he know that Greg had suggested the name because the woman who would later become his wife was at the time dating a man named RODNEY.

ROISTEROUS REVELER

NIGHTMARE FACTOID #2

By the fall of 1958, the horror host format had become so prevalent on national television stations that TV GUIDE published two articles on the phenomenon. The first appeared in the March 29, 1958 issue with pictures of hosts from Chicago, Miami and Philadelphia. A second article appeared in the December 1958 issue and featured Wichita's own horror host Tom Leahy as THE HOST and Lee Parsons as the first RODNEY.

NIGHTMARE

GHOULISH GARGOYLE

NIGHTMARE FACTOID #1

When NIGHTMARE first appeared in January, 1958, it joined many of the other horror host type programs airing all over the country. Each of these shows was taking advantage of what was known as the SHOCK film package released to television stations during the Fall of 1957, in time for Halloween. This film package featured the classic horror films from the Universal film studio, such as FRANKENSTEIN, THE WOLFMAN, THE MUMMY and DRACULA.
